CHARLES AND RAY EAMES LCM with developmental mounts

Herman Miller | USA, c. 1952 | aniline-dyed plywood, chrome-plated steel, rubber
27½ h × 22¼ w × 25¼ d in (70 × 57 × 64 cm)

This rare LCM has transitional mounting hardware on the front shock mounts of the seat. The early experiments with the welded rubber yielded a number of working solutions to the problem of attaching plywood to a metal frame. In this example, a coupling was incorporated around the front legs that surrounds the leg and is subsequently attached to the rubber mounts with a screw.

Estimate: $2,000–3,000
