PETER VOULKOS
stack pot

USA, 1967 | wheel-thrown earthenware with slip welds
27¾ h × 10¾ w × 11 d in (70 × 27 × 28 cm)

Created while Voulkos was a guest artist at a small college in 1967, this vase was built during an educational demonstration workshop. The form is a spontaneous composition that illustrates the possibilities of the ceramic material. Lot includes a comical note from Voulkos to David Crespi, the original owner, asking for payment for his time at the college.
