ZAHA HADID Moraine sofa

Sawaya & Moroni | United Kingdom, 2000 | horsehair, multiple density foam
29¾ h × 133 w × 66 d in (76 × 338 × 168 cm)

Zaha Hadid has emerged as one of the preeminent architects and designers at the turn of the century, creating dynamic and complex forms. Awarded the Pritzker Prize in 2004, she is the first woman to receive the prestigious honor. Although her built works are few in number, her impact on the world of architecture and design has been enormous. The Moraine sofa references the geological phenomenon and echoes a topographical surface. Formally, the lines and contours are both abstract and realistic, illustrating Hadid's penchant for natural yet highly stylized designs. Signed with leather label to side: [Sawaya & Moroni Milano Italy].
